Dear Parents/Carers,

Club Room Weekly Information – w/b 9.11.26

Bracing for the cold

Please can you make sure that your child has the appropriate clothing for the colder weather, including a named coat.

SEND Parent Workshop - Cancelled

Please note that the dyslexia SEND workshop that was scheduled for Wednesday 11 November has been cancelled due to unforeseen circumstances. We are looking to rearrange this for a future date.

Highlights

We have had terrific moments of play with our new toy kitchen set. It is lovely to see the children use their imagination to create their own café!

Weekly Value

As we begin to revisit some of the values that we have previously focused on, we will make sure that they are appropriate to the current time in the academic year as well as any upcoming activities that are occurring.

The value we are going to focus on this week is determination. We are aware that that in the colder and darker months it can be tricky to stay determined, so we will look at strategies that we can use to support us be determined.

Zones of Regulation

Similar to our weekly values, we will be using the discussion opportunities to show how we can effectively use the Zones of Regulation board and what support the adults can offer. Adults in the class will also be modelling using the Zones board, with the aim of it becoming part of the children's daily routines.

Learning

For our KS1 pupils, learning this week will be very fun, with lots of practical activities. These activities will be ranging from phonics with blending our special friend sounds, to art where we will be doing painting.

For our KS2 pupils, there will be lots of fun English activities that will take place this week. Using figurative language in poetry, dissecting features of a non-chronological report about earthquakes and using descriptive vocabulary for an adventure story.

Have a lovely week!
